THE PLANE AND THE AVIATORS

T-2 OUTFLIES BIRDS; SETS NEW RECORD

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Some twenty years ago at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, a crowd of curious spectators stood around a strange machine known as an airplane and with one accord declared: "Hull—that thing will never leave the ground."

But it did. Under the guidance of Orville Wright, the contrivance arose falteringly and spent a few minutes in the air, growing and creaking. Aviation in America had become a reality.

In spite of this initial success, doubtful ones who witnessed and read of the achievement, still said: "Well, they'll never get anywhere with a contraption like that."

Today, in a hangar at Rockwell Field, near here, there stands a biplane descendant of that "contraption" which only day before yesterday stood in a hangar at Hempstead, N. Y., 2,625 miles away, having traversed the continent in the air, under its own power and without a stop, in 26 hours, 40 minutes and 43.25 seconds.

Another step in the progress of aviation has been accomplished and one which surpasses what inventors at first merely termed "the flight of a bird" for no bird can fly continuously for so long a time or such a distance. The man who flew the machine from New York are Lieutenants Oakley G. Kelly and John A. Macready, who between them already hold seven aviation records for speed, duration of flight and weight taken into the air on a single airplane.

The men thought little of their accomplishment and almost as soon as they landed were making plans for attempting to establish a new record for duration of flight and an attempt to fly around the world.

The plane used yesterday was the same they had used in two previous attempts to cross the American continent without a stop, the first of which was halted by a fog which prevented them from finding their way through the mountain passes east of here and the second of which terminated through a failure of their engine at Indianapolis last November.

Both of these attempts, resulted in record performances, for the aviators turned the first one into an attempt for a record for sustained flight. They circled above San Diego and is envious for 25 hours, 18 minutes and 30 seconds exceeding by more than nine hours the best previous mark. Official acceptance of this mark as an international record was withheld because of technicalities, though there was no question that the aviators had remained aloft for the time stated.

The second attempt also had its start from Rockwell Field. In it the three drove eastward as far as Indianapolis, where they landed only after they had used everything available in the plane to keep their engine cool, even pouring into its radiator system the milk and coffee from their provisions to replenish the water that had leaked out.

through cracks in the engine's cylinder jackets.

The fliers were given such a greeting here on their arrival as comes to few men. San Diegoans, one by one, and the other by adoption, the city took them to her heart with unanimous acclaim. Although the big T-2 landed in the middle of the field, the crowd that gathered was so large and pressed so close to the aviators, that by the time Major Henry A. Arnold, commandant of the field, arrived, he had to fight his way through.

"You have accomplished the impossible," Major Arnold declared in his enthusiasm and his words found echoes from every quarter of the country in messages, including one from President Harding, which read: "You have written a new chapter in the triumph of American aviation."

Both the aviators were in good physical condition when they landed. Except for a few splatters of oil from the Liberty motor, they had brought them a greater distance than any persons have ever flown previously in one continuous flight, they were seemingly as fresh on landing as if they had taken an hour's jaunt. They began telling newspaper men how they planned to try for new and more difficult records.

The story of the flight was told by the men who made it in a matter-of-fact way with first one and then the other putting in a sentence or a word to illuminate some point as they alternately carried on the description.

There was the start when the hangars at Hempstead, were missed only by inches. There was difficulty in getting the motor's full power into play for the first few hundred miles and the thrill Macready described when they ran into a mammoth beacon light at Bellevue, Ill., piercing the clouds and darkness to guide them on their way. There was the danger of the desert in Arizona, bare of all aviators in the past, where landing in the day time is dangerous and at night most likely fatal.

And then San Diego, nestling like a miniature paradise on a bay of the Pacific in Southern California—home.

A flight finished. A record made. Baths, food and cigarettes.

One note of anxiety was in the story. That remained from the fear while over New Jersey that the voltage regulator of their ignition system would force them to land. Macready repaired it.

The grind began Wednesday at 1:30:52 p. m. eastern standard time. The distance is estimated at approximately 2,700 miles. The aviators received a warm greeting when they were sighted over the city a few minutes before they landed at Rockwell Field. Planes from the field and Naval planes from North Island, escorted the two Lieutenants to the landing field. Whistles of factories and from workshops in the harbor also joined in the greeting.

Both aviators were in good physical condition when they landed and after being greeted by army officials were taken to the officers' quarters.

Mayor Of Lorain To Be Called On Carpet

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Mayor E. N. Fair, of New Philadelphia, is to be ordered before Governor Denney early next week to discuss the situation in his city, relative to alleged law enforcement on the part of the police department and to state what action, if any, he expects to take in attempting to remedy the situation.

Charges involve the entire police department of New Philadelphia. They charge the police department with failure to enforce prohibition laws and laws relative to morality.

Kidnapped Son Of Wireless Wizard Found; Abductors Escape

WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Vernor Alexanderson, kidnapped Schoenaday lad, for whom a nation-wide search was conducted for 72 hours, and who was found Thursday evening in a shack on the Indian River near Theresa, 25 miles from here, started for home today after a joyful reunion with his father and mother at the home of Sheriff Ernest C. Gillett. With him goes a dog, a present from his kidnappers, the lad insisting that unless his new pet accompanied him, he did not want to go.

Harry Fairbanks, of Ogdensburg, and Stanley Crandall, of Rochester, and Watertown, the alleged kidnappers, have escaped into Canada it is believed. The trail was lost at Rockport across the St. Lawrence River from Alexandria Bay.

Mrs. H. D. Grinnell, of Alexandria Bay, in whose charge the boy was found, and who is said to be the foster mother to Fairbanks' wife is at the county jail here. At first she maintained she did not know the men who placed the child in her charge, declaring that they hired her to care for the child at the secluded shack half a mile from her home village. In her possession was found a letter addressed to Dr. E. F. M. Alexanderson, father of the kidnapped boy, in which she asked information about the two men.

This too is suspected of being a "move" to protect her. When she learned that the officers knew of Fairbanks and his connection with the case, she admitted her relationship with Mrs. Fairbanks, but disclaimed knowledge of the identity of the lad, saying he thought it was a "liquor deal."

Dr. Alexanderson and Mrs. Alexanderson reached Watertown by an early train and went at once to the home of Sheriff Gillett.

"Oh my sweetheart," exclaimed the mother on sight of her boy.

"Mamma," he shouted as she clasped him in her arms. Then the sheriff closed the doors and smilingly guarded the wife as father, mother and baby son, held their reunion.

"Hello, mamma, I'm all right!" These words in a boyish voice told Mrs. Alexanderson, wife of E. F. W. Alexanderson, chief engineer of the Radio Corporation of America last night, that would soon see her six year old son, Vernor, who was kidnapped from his home here Monday afternoon.

Vernor telephoned his mother from Watertown, where he is in safe-keeping of Sheriff Jackson of Jefferson county.

"Hello, mamma, I'm all right!" sang out Vernor over the telephone from Sheriff Jackson's office in Watertown.

"Hello my darling," exclaimed the mother. "And you're all right?"

"Yes mamma, and say, you oughta see my dog," returned the boy.

The woman told him her name was "Grinnell," and said that she had been employed by two men Monday night at Alexandria Bay to take care of "their son" until they could bring their families to a newly acquired camp.

Jarvis asked the boy if he was Vernor. He said he was and the woman asserted: "Yes, he is Vernor Alexanderson."

Suspect Jumps On Newspaper Photographer

TEGUCIGALPA, HONDURAS, May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—When a newspaper photographer attempted to take a picture of the woman whom the police are holding at Clara Phillips, the California "hammer murderer," she resisted, throwing herself upon the man and compelling him forcibly to forego his effort.

The woman also tried to snatch from the authorities the newspaper likenesses of Mrs. Phillips, which the officers were using for the purposes of comparison. The police say there is a striking resemblance between pictures of the murderer and the prisoner.

Rum Fleet Back Again

NEW YORK, May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The rum fleet, which apparently had run away yesterday in the face of a three-sided attack by government forces, has eluded back and is lying in extended formation off the coast. Captain Berry of the coast guard service announced today. The yacht Isar and the British tanker Warzewa are off Johns Islet, while some schooners are scattered along in open formation about twelve miles apart.

Faulkner Better

NEW YORK, May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—James W. Faulkner, national political correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who is seriously ill at the Waldorf-Astoria, was reported today to have shown some improvement during the night.

Jan. Munan, New York correspondent of the Enquirer said last night that Faulkner's condition was considered precarious by the attending physicians. Faulkner's illness was centered in his heart and lungs and on Thursday a "rumor" was spread that he was "improving."

Krupps To Go On Trial

WERDEN, RHENISH-PRUSSIA, May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—This little German town, hugging both banks of the River Ruhr just under the hill that is crowned by the Krupp mansion, was attracting more attention today than at any time in its history of centuries.

The French brought Werden before the eyes of the world when they decided to hold here today and tomorrow the court martial of Dr. Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen, president of the great Krupp works, five of the directors and four members of the workmen's council who are charged with inciting the attack on French troops March 13.

The court martial headquarters of the 77th French Division were moved to the town because of crowded conditions in Essen.

Werdn is just a few miles south of Essen. It was fled with foreigners today, most of them newspaper correspondents from Paris, London, the United States, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Switzerland.

The horizon blue uniform of the French soldier was seen everywhere on the streets and in all the public buildings. The highways leading to the village were guarded and admittance to the town was only possible through the presentation of identification cards. The French also controlled the telephone and telegraph.

On the outskirts of Werden, armored cars and tanks were placed at convenient places, although the military authorities agreed that there was no possibility that such implements of war would be needed.

Averse To Cripples, Is Excuse Given In Slaying Of Couple

SAGINAW, MICH., May 4.—Gideon Cardinal, 36, is to be examined by a lunacy commission, prosecuting authorities here announced today, following his alleged confession that he killed Clement Shover, 65, and the latter's wife, Grace, 62, with a hatchet "because Shover was a cripple."

Brands Combine Huge Trust

KANSAS CITY, May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Purchase of Morris and Company by Armour and Company, constitutes "the biggest attack ever made in this country on our anti-trust laws" it was declared here today by Judge B. T. Haines, chief counsel for Secretary Wallace, following receipt of a telegram from Wallace instructing him to "leave nothing undone" in prosecuting the department's complaint that the purchase would be in violation of the packers and stockyards act.

Swapped Wives, Claimed

FLINT, MICH., May 4.—Albert G. Badersher, father of five children and Mrs. Helen Maser, mother of four, were being held here today for authorities at Toledo, where a federal warrant is said to have been issued against Badersher. According to local officers, they left their homes near Lima, Ohio, three weeks ago after Badersher attempted to make an agreement with Mrs. Maser's husband to exchange wives with him.

The authorities quote Mrs. Maser as saying her husband agreed to the separation but demanded custody of their four children. An agreement finally was made, they asserted, whereby Mrs. Maser was to take two of the children with her. The children were with Mrs. Maser when the couple were taken into custody.

Mrs. Maser is being held as a witness against Badersher.

Denies "Swapping" Story

LIMA, O., May 4.—Phillip Moser, 32, whose wife Helena is held in Flint, Mich., with Albert Badersher, 31, a neighbor, on warrants charging Badersher with violation of the Mann Act today denied a story of reports that he had agreed with Badersher to an interchange of wives.

"The two left March 24 in Badersher's car, taking my two daughters," he said. "I was not so surprised, as they had been very friendly for some time. I don't know whether I'll take my wife back or not, and I don't think Mrs. Badersher feels very friendly towards him."

The families live near Pandora, a little colony of Mennonites.

Mr. Hager said today: "The Ashland Rotary Club is in splendid, healthy condition with an active, wide-awake membership that has been accomplishing a more than ordinary share of the Rotary ideals. It will be the endeavor of the new officers to maintain the present high standard of accomplishment."

Would Bar Ship Sales

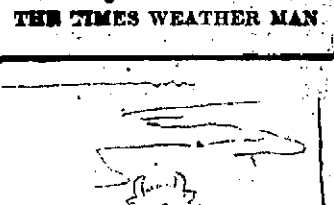

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Representative Grallum, of Illinois, a candidate for Republican leadership in the next House, announced today, that as soon as Congress convenes in December, he would introduce a bill to prohibit American ships from carrying and serving liquor to passengers at any time.

In a formal statement the Illinois Representative discussed the Supreme Court's decision, which held there is no legal bar to domestic vessels carrying liquor when outside American territorial waters.

T-2 Outflies

Aeroplane flight was smashed today by the transcontinental jump.
It was the second attempt of Kelly and MacReady at a transcontinental flight without a stop, they having been forced down at Indianapolis on their way east from San Diego last year. This flight was made in the same plane that was used in the transatlantic flight, though a different engine had been installed.

"You have written a new chapter in the triumph of American aviation," said a telegram from President Harding and scores of other congratulatory messages expressed a similar enthusiasm over the accomplishment.

The T-2 landed at Rockwell Field, according to the official timers at 20 minutes, 50 1/2 seconds past 12 o'clock noon Pacific Coast time.

Crowd Is Thrilled.
There was wild enthusiasm at Rockwell Field when Lieutenant MacReady nosed the T-2 down and landed the huge ship with consummate ease on almost the exact spot where he and Kelly took off in their attempt to fly to New York, November 4, last.

The crowd, thrilled by the sight of the beautiful ship and sensing deeply what its feat meant for America's prestige in the air, pushed the guards aside like so much chaff and bore down on Kelly and MacReady, madly cheering the record makers.

The two air navigators, their faces splashed with oil and grease but wreathed in wide grins, were fairly forced up against the fuselage. Here they were lifted on the shoulders of admirers, presented with huge bouquets and not let down until the throng had yelled itself hoarse.

Major Henry Arnold, Commandant of Rockwell Field, and the officials of the National Aeronautical Association, were caught in the mad rush of the spectators. Major Arnold finally fought his way to MacReady and Kelly's side.

"Congratulations," said the Major to both men. "It was a marvelous flight and we are surely proud of you."

High Spots In Flight.
The following table marks the progress of the historic flight, and shows in all cases in eastern standard time.

12:37 p. m. (Wednesday) left Hempstead.
6:55 p. m. over Dayton, Ohio.
8:30 p. m. over Terre Haute, Ind.
10:15 p. m. over St. Louis, Mo.
1:00 a. m. (Thursday) Kansas City, Mo.

Here the plane was swallowed by the darkness and was not heard from definitely until after dawn, when it was reported over New Mexico.

Seek Greater Laurels.
Later a report was received from Arizona, and then El Centro, California, flashed the word that the aviators had passed over there at 11:23 a. m. (Coast time), flying at 4,000 to 5,000 feet elevation. The landing at Rockwell Field was made in about an hour.

The aviators hardly made their record before they were laying plans for a more ambitious flight—one around the world. This they hope to attempt next year, they announced in a statement last night.

Aviators Tell Story.
After Kelly and MacReady had refreshed themselves with a quick wash and some food they told their story. "It was a complete success, first was getting in a comfortable way, and then the other looking for it."

"When we left New York," said Kelly, "we could not seem to get the full horsepower out of the Liberty engine. We flew for more than 20 miles at an altitude of less than 200 feet."

"Over New Jersey the voltage regulator went out. This was heart-breaking, for, unless we could repair it in flight, we would be forced to turn back. We had to hold the control wheel MacReady sat desperately to work of taking off switches and installing a new one."

"He succeeded and a load was lifted from our hearts when the regulator again began to function properly."

MacReady Relates Experience.
MacReady took up the story: "From that moment the flight became a pleasant prospect for us, and we encountered no further mechanical trouble. The Liberty motor we kept operating at 90 per cent of its full horsepower after we had cleared the New Jersey air lanes."

"Reaching Dayton, Ohio, 500 miles air line from New York, we headed for St. Louis, thence, steered for Tucumcari, New Mexico. We were flying at an altitude of 2,000 feet when darkness caught us near Indianapolis."

"Approximately 60 miles from Belleville, Illinois, we were thrilled by the sight of a huge beam of light projecting up through the clouds."

On Dangerous Shore.
It was a veritable beam along a rocky and dangerous shore for us, for otherwise intense darkness prevailed and we were trusting solely to our compass to keep on a straight course."

"Aided by this beam of light, which we knew came from Belleville, we continued straight as an arrow for the Missouri River. A light rain began to fall when we crossed the Missouri line, a condition we were prepared for on account of the cloudy weather in Indiana and Illinois. At the Missouri-Kansas line, while traveling better than 110 miles an hour and at an altitude of 5,000 feet, we sighted moonlight filtering through cloud holes. It gave us a feeling of security."

"These faint streaks of moonlight were all that we sighted of the heavens until daybreak over Tucumcari. Kelly was at the stick. Dawn was just breaking. Kelly gave a shout of joy, when, on looking over the side of the cockpit he spied the cemetery on the outskirts of Tucumcari. It was a landmark we knew."

Troubles Are At End.
From that time on the aviators had not the slightest difficulty. They were flying in daylight over a section they knew well from their previous flight and the plane, lightened of much of its early burden of fuel, did all that was asked of it in climbing over the mountain ranges. They considered that part of the trip so easy they barely commented on it."

MacReady and Kelly said they exchanged positions at the wheel every six hours except while crossing over the Arizona forests. Then they changed frequently, partly to rest and partly to arrange their schedule so that MacReady would handle the controls in making the landing here.

The aviators said they would remain here in the hope of establishing a new world duration record of at least 48 hours. They will make that effort some time this summer. They expect to remain on duty at Rockwell Field until next spring, when they plan to go east to prepare for their attempt to fly around the world.

SKUNKS AIDES DISTILLER.
WASHINGTON, C. H. Ohio, May 3.—Sam Davis, farmer, of near Leesburg, has been fined $350 and costs on a charge of violating the prohibition laws, and $25 and costs for keeping skunks penned up.

Officers who arrested Davis believe the man had the skunks to "disguise" the odor arising from the production of liquor in a building adjacent to the pen.

Burton Is Strong For Court Proposal.
CLEVELAND, O., May 4.—Congressman Theodore E. Burton, addressing the Republicans women league of Cleveland, and Cuyahoga county today, urged his audience to support President Harding's program for an international court of justice, declaring that the World Court is the ultimate basis for peace.

The League of Nations is political, while the World Court is judicial, Mr. Burton said. Arbitration is not satisfactory because decisions under arbitration are made by the countries involved and by a third arbitrator.

Every president since the days of Washington, Mr. Burton declared, has favored judicial settlements of international disputes as against settlements by diplomacy or arbitration.

The Observer

The president of an old-line company recently said he could not stop to talk to the financial reporter, but said the scribe might walk up Broadway with him to an appointment further up town. The scribe made glowing comment on the company's volume of business, carefully framing his talk to lead up to earnings. Finally, he made a remark which could only be answered by the earnings figures, and held his breath for a reply. The president strode along through the crowd for some moments in thought; finally he turned to the scribe and said:

Extra! The Perfect
Husband Is Found

CINCINNATI, O., May 4.—A perfect husband has been found among the denizens of the Cincinnati Zoological Garden. He's a bird.
Black African Hornbill is the genus of the "perfect husband" and he gains his title because of his unflinching attention to his mate. He builds the nest and while she is raising the family maintains the strictest kind of guard over his home.
The nest is constructed in a hollow tree, and the male Hornbill leaves a small opening so he can feed his mate during the hatching period. The aperture is so small that the female, with the aid of her steel-like bill, can protect herself against any predatory animal.
This is the first African Hornbill seen at the Zoo in thirty-two years.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief
For Acid Indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.
Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.
To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter or a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is perfectly harmless, and inexpensive remedy to use.
An antacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose. —Advertisement.

When the motor, which operates the hot well pumps supplying power to one of the big turbines in the New Boston power plant of the Street Railway company burned out at 8:30 Monday morning, industrial and domestic power in the city was off until 2:25 p. m. During this time not a wheel turned in The Times plant.
A smaller motor was brought into play, but it only supplied power to a limited number of patrons. The street railway company soon had a force of men at work on the motor, but it required six hours to put it in running order again.
"I know our users were disappointed and their daily schedules disrupted, but it could not be helped and we worked with all possible speed in making repairs to the motor," Supt. H. H. Higgins stated.
Street cars were kept running, but not on their regular schedule and thousands of people had to walk to the show grounds. Many plants and factories in the city were idle from 8:30 a. m. till 2:25 p. m. owing to a lack of power.
It was stated by officials of the company that equipment was being installed in the plant, which would take care of emergencies like these in the future. The capacity of the plant is being doubled and in case of any sized motor going wrong in the future there will be one on hand to be pressed into service immediately.

SPORT THAT IS STRENUOUS

Angling With Rod and Line for Swordfish Can Be Guiltless and to Furnish Thrills.

Swordfishing for broadbill swordfish with rod and reel, no doubt heads the list of the most strenuous kinds of angling. This peculiar form of sport has been practiced for a number of years on the Pacific coast in the neighborhood of Santa Catalina island and to a less extent, and more recently, along our own Atlantic seaboard. In many respects it is the most fascinating of all forms of fishing. C. K. Stillman, writes in the Health Builder. There is considerable difficulty in finding the prospective victims as they swim or float solitary near the surface of the sea, and more yet when found in persuading them to bite. Once hooked, the swordfish is a very resourceful antagonist and hard to keep on the line. The angler never knows what is going to happen next and is never entirely free from apprehension that the fish may attack his boat. No fishing is more productive of super thrills and of grievous disappointments. To the swordfish angler the landing of one fish is a season's triumph. Many have gone out year after year for swordfish without success, but they keep on doggedly in the knowledge that a lucky turn of events may at any moment bring achievement.

DAYS WHEN WOMEN RULED

By Far the More Important Sex in Early Days of the World, Is Recent Statement.

Recent research, by some French professors, into the ways of women of a hundred thousands years ago, have given an unexpected jolt to preconceived ideas. Now the professors declare that woman, in the days of our cave-dwelling ancestors, was regarded as of the more important sex. Men held a secondary position, tolerated for the sake of the food and skins provided. Women ruled, and were the inventors of the earliest arts and sciences. It was the woman's ingenuity which devised snares for animals and made plans for storing food against times of scarcity. Women taught ways of making clothing from skins of animals, and by the efforts of their brains improved the lot of all the human race. Woman's cunning and wit were the outcome of her lack of physical strength, which obliged her to resort to strategy rather than force. On the whole, the prehistoric woman apparently held the same position and ruled man in the same manner that she does today, according to these gentlemen, who may, however, have a different opinion for us tomorrow.

Love of Trees.
Love of trees is almost a religion to the Jug-Slav peasant. The new kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes boasts some of the oldest forests in the world. During the Middle Ages wood from the provinces east of the Adriatic was exported to Venice, where it was made into ships and furniture, and cabinets—some of the far-famed works of art that have survived the early renaissance.

One of the native picturesque customs deals with the choosing of a tree for a rule ing at Christmas time, says the Detroit News. Without this rule log, or "badnjak," as it is known in Slovenia, no Christmas is complete and no family is too poor to have one. The first chip that flies when the tree is being felled is placed in the milk, the beehive, the hen roost, anywhere that the housewife especially desires prosperity. In some regions the chips of the badnjak are all gathered up and presented to members of the family and to the animals of the farm.

President Tyler's Love Affairs.
John Tyler, tenth President of the United States, was married twice, and in each case it was a marriage of affection. His first wife was Letitia Christian, daughter of Robert Christian, one of the best known men of Virginia. It might almost be called a boy and girl affair, but they were married and lived happily together for 30 years. The second wife of the President was Julia Gardiner. She married the President while he was still in office, and after his death went to Richmond, where she spent the remainder of her life.

Most Americans regarding him in a superficial way—think of Tyler as one of the prosaic matter-of-fact Presidents of the United States, yet in the wooing of Miss Christian he gave proof that he possessed an ardent temperament—the temperament of a love-stricken and romantic young man.

Uruguay—A Sketch.
The broad plains of Uruguay in the amber April that is autumn here. The vintage season, great black and rose-colored insect grapes, whose crisp skin crackles under my teeth. Swarthy laborers picking heavy clusters. Dashing horsemen, their silver stirrups inlaid with gold, in white ponchos, broad sombreros, with long flowing scarfs fluttering over their shoulders, shout a greeting to the rhythm of their horses' hoofs, and speed on. Gardens of pink laurel and red hibiscus. Grand avenues of eucalyptus, silencing in the sun, their trembling foliage outlined high above us, against the blue vaults of heaven. Poons singing in the vineyards, or after sunset, lulling gentle chants to the accompaniment of their guitars. A vineyard festival.—Renée Franchon in La Revue de L'Amerique Latine.

BROWN'S

813-815 Gallia Street Krieger Building

Twenty-four Years Ago
John Guthrie, a former well known First Ward resident and plumber, who had been absent for over twenty years, was in the city renewing old acquaintances. Changed in appearance he was scarcely known by his old schoolmates and associates. Will Bester, the barber, better known as "Slate", was badly cut and bruised when a bicycle he was riding collided with a carriage at Second and Washington streets. J. P. Jones, an Otway young man, was arrested when mistaken for a burglar, because he tried to enter the wrong house on East Second street, while seeking his best girl. Hon. R. L. Grimes, mayor of Jackson, was married to Miss Mary Bertsch, a prominent young woman of that city, formerly of Portsmouth. Miss Anna Henderson left for New York City to make her home with her brother, Charles. Ex-Policeman John W. Herrick resigned his position at the Portsmouth Store and Range Works and prepared to leave for Waynesboro, W. Va. Henry Baker, foreman of the molding room, was cut about the face and hands by flying glass when the skylight on the molding room at the Portsmouth Foundry and Machine Works fell with a great crash. John Fields, 28 years old, Lucasville farmer, obtained a license to marry Julia Rockwell, 28, also of Lucasville.

William Wallace owned his summer resort one mile north of the city on the Chillicothe pike.

STATE PLAYS CHICAGO SATURDAY

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—Encouraged by the field day they held here Monday at Purdue's expense, Ohio State's baseball team is putting in its final preparatory work, to meet the University of Chicago nine here Saturday. With only one other at home, Big Ten game, left on the schedule this contest has been shifted to Neil Park, the home of the Columbus American Association team, in the expectation of a big crowd.

Critics are convinced that the Buckeyes are capable of being a real factor in the Western Conference baseball race this spring. The 15 to 2 victory over Purdue emphasized the belief.

The pitching of both Workman and Miller, new hurlers, was good. The best feature of the Buckeyes' play from Coach L. W. St. John's standpoint, was the heavy hitting. The Scarlett and Gray athletes revealed. They fell on three Purdue pitchers and treated all of 'em rough, gathering 21 hits for the day.

Following a game here next Monday with Cincinnati, the Ohio State squad takes to the road until its big game here May 28 with Michigan. Only one other at home game is on the schedule—that of June 9 with Denison as a commencement week attraction.

TAIL HAS ITS FUNCTION

Different Reasons for Different Movements, According to Eminent Italian Professor.

Animals' tails have various functions, Prof. Giuseppe Renato tells us in a published study of their uses, the New York Times states. The tail of a dog, says the professor, is, as we all know, an index of his psychological state; he raises and wags it, under the impression of joy, lowers it when afflicted and trails it between his legs when frightened. Why, then, may we not believe that dogs have a caudal language, and that the various movements of the tail form a method of communication between them?

The professor points out that among cattle and beasts of burden the tail is a weapon of defense against insects which, in the undomesticated state of these animals, may often have meant the saving of their lives. He says that in the early struggle for existence in the wild, the tail of the animal was purely a matter of which had the strongest tail. This resulted in the development of the muscles of the cow and horse to a remarkable degree.

When a horse is struck on the back with a whip it switches the spot with its tail. The horse knows it is a whip and not an insect, but the reflex muscles of its tail are so highly developed that it instinctively switches before the horse has time to telegraph to his brain and put in a stop order.

A cow finds it less fatiguing to keep up a perpetual side to side motion of its tail than to indulge in the nervous, energetic one which the horse upon occasion employs.

EVINCE INTEREST IN MAN

Lower Animals Believed to Look Upon Human Biped as Very Much One of Themselves.

That animals look upon man as one of themselves, and not as an object entirely beyond their horizon, is evidenced by the remarkable interest and curiosity regarding him and his doings shown by wild creatures, and by their desire to make friends with him as long as their confidence has not been met by rough rebuke and persecution, which is also the response given by the destroyer of creation to such friendly advances.

It is our own fault only, if birds all the world over are not even now on the same footing of familiarity with us as were the birds of the Monte Alverna when St. Francis of Assisi arrived there; or the birds of the Galapagos Islands when Darwin visited them; or as the birds of southern Morocco are at the present day, or were, at least, under Mohammedan rule, a few years ago.

But even birds, which have learned at their cost that to come within reach of man is an infinitely greater risk than to approach a wildcat or a snake, will still when they believe themselves unobserved, and while taking all necessary precautions, often give way to the feeling of curiosity with which the appearance of the long biped in unexpected localities and on unexpected occasions inspires them.—Hans Coudenhove in the Atlantic Monthly.

Pastorals

Pastoral literature must not be confounded with that which has for its subject the lives, and ideas, and the emotions of simple and unsophisticated mankind, far from the centers of our complex civilization. The two may be in their origin related, and they occasionally, as it were, stretch out feelers towards one another, but the pastoral or traditional lies in its essence as far from the human document of humble life as from a volume of pastoral theology.

Thus the shepherds of pastorals are primarily and distinctively shepherds; they are not mere rustics engaged in sheepcraft as one out of many of the employments of mankind. As soon as the natural shepherd-life had found an objective setting in conscious artistic literature, it was felt that there was, after all, a difference between hoeing turnips and pasturing sheep; that the one was capable of a particular literary treatment which the other was not.—W. R. Greg.

The Proper Thing

A man went into a bakery the other day. "I'm getting married next week," he began, "and I want to buy a wedding cake." "I suppose you know, sir," said the shop-girl, "that it's the latest thing to choose wedding cakes which harmonize with one's business or profession. For instance, an athlete would have a cup cake, a musician an oat cake, a man who gouges his friends a sponge cake, a pianist a pound cake, and so on. What, may I ask, is your calling?" "I am a doctor," the bridegroom answered. "In that case, then," said the girl, smiling, "we would, of course, prescribe an angel cake."

Make the Children a Scrap-Book. Start a historical scrap-book for the children. Put into it pictures and items of unusual interest dealing with important public characters and events. It encouraged in this work they will complete the book when they are grown up, and will have not only a book of much interest and information, but will have a liking for history (history which will be real and concrete to them), not developed so easily by any other method.

The Unkind Critic

"I'm going in for athletics," remarked the thin, energetic girl. "Would you advise golf or tennis?" "I think the costume of either sport would be becoming," answered Miss Cayenne. "All I should advise you against is swimming."

Losing A Sale To Gain A Friend

There are institutions founded solely on profit; and there are those whose first aim is Service—profitable, inevitably, too, because he profits most who serves best.

When a salesperson deliberately discourages a purchase because of its unsuitability, she not only gains a friend but builds for better service—the specialized type of Service for which this store firmly stands.

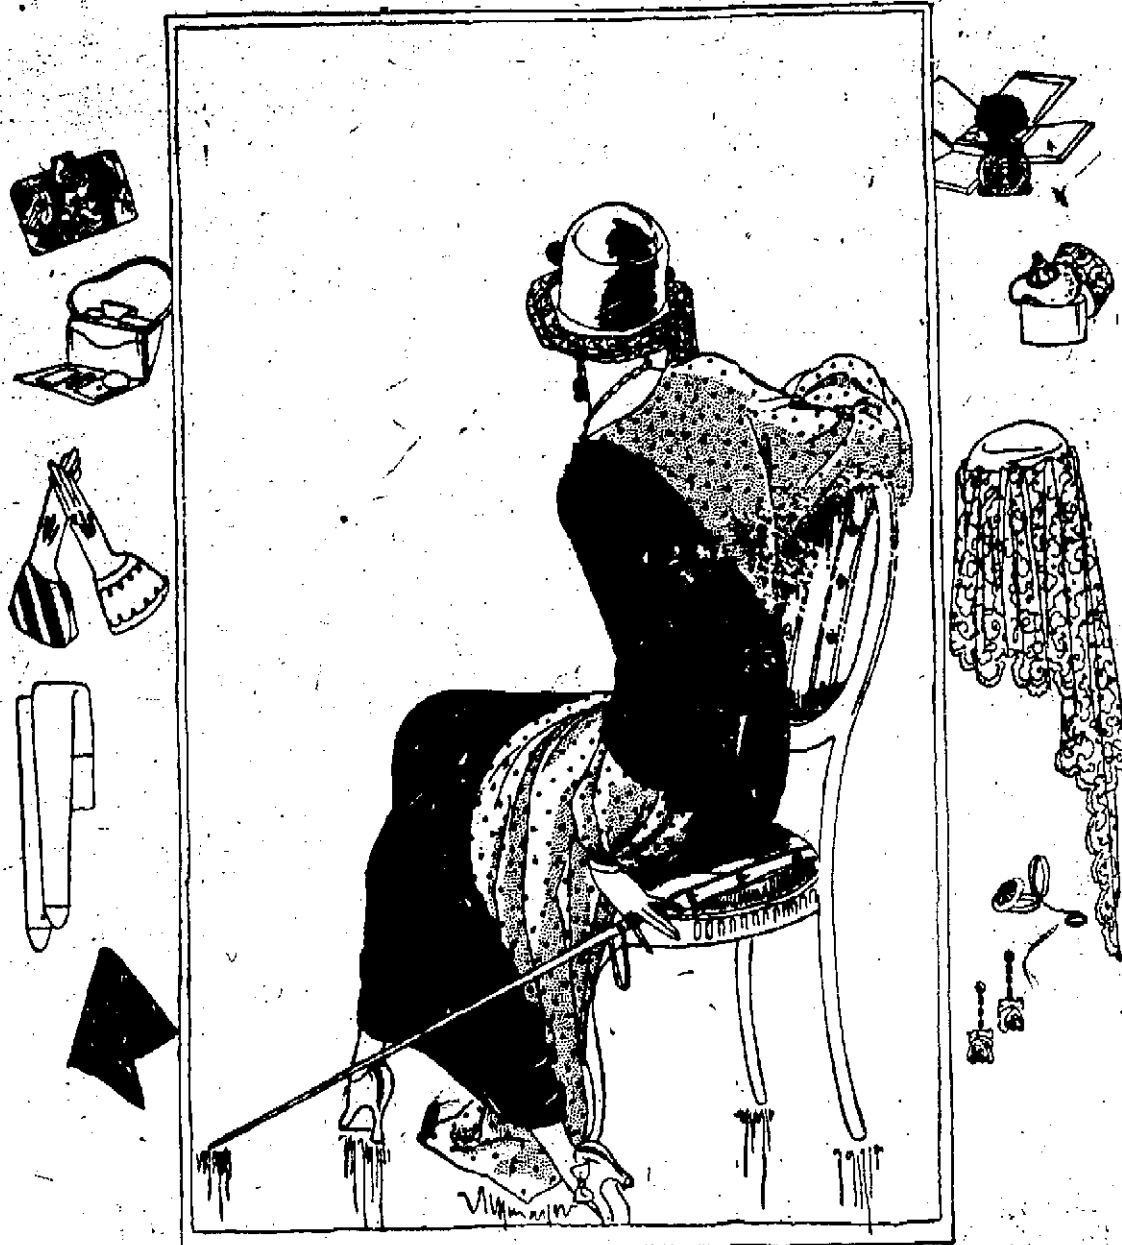

Not that we may sell fashions alone, but that we may serve and gain friends. To this end a lost sale is an investment when it yields a friend.

We serve to please and we are pleased to serve. Sounds like Shakespeare. But it's a good policy to follow in the 20th century as well as the 16th.

We have always felt that the greatest of all virtues is Service. Looks as though there's something more to business than mere barter.

SOCIAL NEWS

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary and the Frances Badger Guild of All Saints' Church enjoyed an all day meeting Thursday, May 3, at the beautiful home of Mrs. Henry T. Bannan, Bannan Place, when the 45 members met together to meet two very charming women, Mrs. W. T. Wells, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese in Southern Ohio, and Mrs. Floyd Van Keuren, treasurer of the United Thank Offering.

The day being ideal, the guests spent the time out of doors on the lawn where the beautiful magnolia blossoms and pink dogwood blossoms and other shrubbery lent to the pleasure of the occasion. At noon, a picnic dinner was enjoyed under the trees, with the following committee in charge: Mrs. Henry T. Bannan, Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. J. H. Varner, Mrs. John Capenbart, Mrs. J. Lehigh Watkins Sr., Mrs. William Hastings, Mrs. W. E. Cox and Mrs. Eric Ferguson.

After dinner Mrs. W. S. Oldfield, president of the local Woman's Auxiliary, called the women together for a business meeting which was opened with devotionals by Rev. E. Anger Powell. Miss Anna Ross read a chapter from the Bible. Both the Woman's Auxiliary and the Frances Badger Guild made donations of money to be sent as a surprise to St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Shanghai, China. This same hospital was recently sent a supply of garments by these Guilds also.

Mrs. Van Keuren gave a most interesting talk about "The Little Blue Box" in which all women of the Episcopal Church place a thank offering each day, and which were presented at the triennial meeting held at Portland, Oregon last fall. The amount taken from the boxes at that time amounted to $669,000 this being a free will offering from the women.

Mrs. Wells gave a splendid talk on the work of the Woman's Auxiliary and related many interesting and a number of pathetic accounts of the work in the hospitals in China. After these talks ten women took part in a so called "United Thank Offering Box Convention", giving in humorous and the experiences of the boxes during the three years of their use in the various homes. Miss Margaret Farnsworth was appointed to receive donations from members of All Saints' Church for the special offering of $75,000 to be raised the next three years by the Episcopal women throughout the country. This offering is to be used for the erection of two houses for women missionaries, who, while in training, may go there to live while on furlough. One of the houses will be in St. Augustine, where colored women will be trained to work among their own people.

The other will be in New York City where volunteers in training may study.

Thursday was one of the many ideal days which the women of All Saints' have enjoyed for years, and other outings to be looked forward to will be held at the home of Miss Hester Bryan on Buena Vista Pike, and the country home of Mrs. Ida McNamee in Kentucky.

Guests for the afternoon included Mrs. Daniel Leach of Bellaire, Ohio, who is the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Leach of Fifth street, and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson of the Home for Aged Women.

Albert Jones and son Clarence, of Garrison, Ky., spent Wednesday with Mr. Jones' daughter, Mrs. G. Jordan of Ninth Street.

After a visit with his mother, Mrs. Mary McNamee of 1536 Tenth St., John McNamee has returned to Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Eva Morgan of Ninth Street, will arrive home today from Athens, where she attends Ohio University, to visit with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. D. Morgan.

Miss Violet Tracy of Stout, Ohio, is here for a week and visit with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Cox of Gallia St.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Curnutte and daughter, Miss Helen, of Gallia St., spent Wednesday at Ironton as guests of Miss Little Curnutte. They were accompanied home by Miss Curnutte, Mrs. Belvin Collins and Mrs. Samuel Curnutte.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hanck of Offshore Street, motored to Columbus yesterday to spend the week end with relatives.

Mr. Will McMurray of Glover St., is spending some time at French Lick Springs at West Baden, Ind.

THE PEACE TREATY

General Gold Braid picked up a pen.

General Hobbledoher and General Gold Braid and General Buttons sat at one end of a long table. Nancy and Nick and the Tinker Man sat at the other end. And in between sat all the colonels and majors and captains and lieutenants and sergeants and corporals of both the armies in Bling-Bang Land. They were signing the peace treaty. General Gold Braid picked up a pen. "Ahem!" he said. "What shall we say?" Everybody thought and thought. "Say there is to be no more war," suggested Nancy. So the general wrote, "No more war." "What else?" he asked. "Please sir, may I ask what we were fighting for?" asked Corporal Clothes Pin. "Certainly! Certainly!" answered General Gold Braid. "We were fighting for—we were fighting for—gentlemen, what were we fighting for?" "I don't know," declared General Hobbledoher. "I don't know, either!" said General Buttons. "None of us know," answered the others. "We don't know what we were fighting for." "Then we'll leave that out," said General Gold Braid. "What next?" "We had better put in something about land," suggested Major Straight Back. "Who gets the land?" "I do," said the Tinker Man hastily. "Bling-Bang Land, belongs to me and always did. Nobody gets it." "Then we'll not mention it," said General Gold Braid hastily. "Strikes me this war was rather foolish," he added. "All wars are!" declared the Tinker Man getting up. "And I hope everybody here has learned a lesson." "We have! We have!" they all agreed. (To Be Continued) (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

We Stop Falling Hair

Grow New Hair in 90 Days or Your Money Refunded

Costs Nothing

Unless we grow hair, the Van Ess 3-bottle treatment is absolutely guaranteed. You are the sole judge. The warrant is signed by your own druggist. All we require is his signature showing you have purchased a ninety-day treatment. If it fails, we refund your money. Hence you assume no risk making this test.

This New Way

Science discovers falling, lustreless hair due to simple infection (Sebum). Now quickly overcomes it. Hair actually grown on 91 heads in 100.

This is to offer you new hair—lustrous, beautiful, attractive—money refunded under our 90-day treatment plan. It offers, too, to stop falling hair. If you fail, the treatment costs you nothing. Your own druggist signs the guarantee. Hence we assume the risk. Thousands of women have made this test. Results are amazing. The charm of wonderful hair is now available to any one who chooses to have it.

The Infected Sebum in Your Hair

Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its natural function is to supply the hair with oil. But frequently it becomes infected. It clogs the scalp; clogs the follicles and plugs them. Germs by the millions breed in it, then feed upon the hair. Soon your hair begins falling. You note too how lifeless it appears. In a short time, all the natural lustre and beauty are gone. But—and note this scientific fact—remove the Sebum and the hair reverts back to the softness and brilliancy it displayed when you were a school girl. The Van Ess treatment accomplishes that result. We know you will doubt it. So we guarantee it. We urge you to give this new way a fair trial. It is folly not to test it; for, remember, you take no risk.

Go to any drug-gist or department store today. Ask for the Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage on the 3-bottle treatment plan. Written guarantee accompanies it.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES IN THE LAND OF MINEY MOE

No sooner had Jack thanked his friend, the mystery man, than he heard a loud clattering and clapping. "What's that?" he asked. "Look ahead of you," replied Remy Meeny, "and you will see." And just a short distance away Jack saw a lot of birds in cages, hanging in front of a funny shaped store.

Jack watched the birds for a moment. Then he turned to Remy Meeny and said, "That's the only thing I don't like about the land of Miney Moe. You shouldn't cage the poor things up like that. Why don't you turn them free?" And lustily the cages flew open and away went the birds.

"Now, just think how much happier they will be," said Jack. But he suddenly was surprised when all of the birds flew back to the perches in their cages. "I guess they don't want to be free," said Remy Meeny. "Oh, they would if you'd teach them to keep away from the cages," replied Jack. (Continued).

No Excuses For British Golfers

LONDON, May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The fact that an American golfer is to carry home the royal St. Georges grand challenge cup is received without resentment and with some generous recognition of the superiority of the trans-Atlantic players. In the London newspaper experts' loss of the trophy and Britain's downfall, of course, are lamented, but no excuses are made for the British failure. In fact some of the home players come in for outspoken criticism.

EARLY DAYS OF AMERICA

Life in Old Cooperstown, N. Y. Placed Until the Arrival of the "Fire Demon."

Cooperstown, in New York state, must have been a quiet and interesting place in the days when James Fenimore Cooper, the novelist, lived there. Mr. James Fenimore Cooper, the grandson, gives us in his delightful book, "Legends and Traditions of a Northern County," a glimpse of manners in Cooperstown in the period following the War of 1812.

In those days, says Mr. Cooper, doctors and lawyers were married men and went about their tasks deliberately in long black coats, and with black silk stocks wound round their long necks, for they were all tall and thin, except one lawyer, who violated custom by being very fat and very fat. They never hurried and never forgot the dignity of their occupation. In fact, no one hurried. In the evening when the mail arrived everyone sauntered to the post office. Old and young were there, the news was discussed, and plans were made for the next day. Joy and sorrow usually came by mail.

SUITABLE PLACE TO READ

Train Declared to Be Best Place for This Pastime, Adhering to Certain Precautions.

The most agreeable place to read any book is on the train. One is comparatively safe from interruption, one cannot be annoyed by the telephone, one almost always has a good light both by day and by night.

Two suggestions will be found practical: In general sit on the right side of the train; then you will usually have no truck outside your window. On the left side freight trains, running in the same direction, keep intervening between you and the light, and it usually seems as if every freight train was at least four miles long; when your railway car has finally passed it and you hear the maddened snort of the freight locomotive, maddened because you have escaped, your own train then stops at a station just long enough to permit the entire freight train to pass, when once more you begin the tedious process of overhauling it.

Therefore, sit on the right side of the train. Secondly, ride backward, if you can. It is easier on the eyes in this attitude, the trees, posts and landscape fade gently and gracefully away, whereas sitting forward, they rush furiously and directly into your defenseless face.—William Lyon Phelps in Scribner's Magazine.

Peanuts on the Train.
In a count recently made in a Long Island train leaving Pennsylvania station for Jamaica, peanuts took the lead in a list of the things people eat or buy on the train. Says the New York Sun: Out of a possible 100 persons in the car 14 were eating something. Six were eating salted peanuts, one had a big red apple, two had raisins, one was eating fruit tablets, one chocolate peppermints, two had dates put up in small boxes and one youngster was busily licking the paint of a lollipop.

Perhaps because they had heard that peanuts have many vitamins in a concentrated form or perhaps because you get a lot for a nickel—whatever the reason they were the most popular confection.

Topaz of Various Colors.
The topaz may be pink, as well as blue or yellow, and it may also be colorless and still be a topaz. Or it may be a rich reddish brown. There's a red brown Colorado topaz at the museum that would warm you on a cold day with its glow. As for the clear varieties of topaz—from Maine, New Hampshire and Utah, as well as from the Ural mountains—they are lovely as diamonds, though lacking the dazzling brilliance of that hardest of all stones.

What Happened to the Violets.
Dad was a trifle near-sighted. Bluebell had been presented with a fine bunch of violets, but they had disappeared, and she was very much put out. It was her intention to wear them to the matinee and she had placed them in the refrigerator the evening before to keep fresh. After listening to her complaints for a while, dad spoke up: "I made myself a salad last night, daughter. I guess I ate your violets with my housewife."

Leaving Prints.
"Some men," remarked the admirer of poetry, "go through life with the idea of leaving footprints on the sands of time."
"Some do," replied the other. "And others are lucky if they get through without leaving their thumb-prints taken."
Willie Willis—"Ma, what do they call a lady who makes eyes at a man?"
Mrs. Willis—"A flirt."
Willie—"Why, that isn't what papa called her at all."

Willis Praises Harding

MARION, O., May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding's home town friends and neighbors were told today by Senator Frank B. Willis, senior member of the Senate from Ohio, that "your great fellow townsman will be re-nominated and re-elected next year."

Speaking before the Marion Republican club, Senator Willis, gave a lengthy review of the accomplishments of the present administration. He asserted that the sentiment of the country is for President Harding for re-election and that he "is the real leader of the country today."

declared Senator Willis, who is a member of the Senate committee on immigration, should not be loosened because of better employment conditions. He declared that some revision of the restrictive laws probably would take place along the following lines: Inspection at the source to determine whether immigrants can incur the hardship and expense of the ocean trip; requirement of a reasonable fee from immigrants, and third, a system of registration to be in effect for five years.

MIRROR IN PROPER PLACE

Member to Whom (Housewife) Should Give Careful Attention Before Making Final Decision.

A mirror in a dull gold frame is a very attractive and useful item in any furnishing scheme, but the position which it is to adorn must be carefully thought out. A long mirror at the end of a narrow, dark hall will do wonders towards giving a sense of light and space, especially if it runs right down to the floor, with a few flowers in an old brass pot standing in front of it. At the mirror, along one side of the bath will protect the walls and impart an air of cleanliness to a stuffy bathroom—an apartment which in small flats so frequently suffers from lack of light and air. Over the drawing room mantelpiece is a favorite place for a large mirror, but it is rather an ordinary idea, and may be improved by placing the looking glass across one corner of the room, in front of a small table bearing old china. If this corner is directly opposite the door, so much the better; it will give quite a vista to the room.

Never hang a mirror on the wall facing the head of the bed. It will irritate the occupant; and throw any light it catches straight into the eyes.

At the head of a staircase a mirror is perhaps found of the greatest advantage, and when it hangs in such a position there should be nothing else near it, and the walls should be either plainly distempered or papered.

DAY OF THE GOLDEN WEST

Justice Administered in Somewhat Crude Fashion After the Conquest of Mexico.

A justice of the Supreme court, mounted on horseback and armed with a Winchester, was O. Henry's definition of a juror, and, barring the horse and the Winchester, the same would apply to an alcalde of the old California days. This refers particularly to the powers of the American alcaldes who came in after the conquest of Mexico. Here is one of the many amusing incidents that happened. John L. Considine writes in Adventure Magazine:

Lawyer Leander Quint of Sonora, for whom Alcaldé J. C. Barry retained a violent dislike, had lost the first three fingers of his right hand. In argument he would gesture violently with this hand, extending the remaining thumb and little finger in a manner that annoyed Barry excessively. After a trial in which Barry had as usual ruled against him, Quint exclaimed: "Judge, I never did stand any chance in your court!" "No, sir," replied Barry, "and you never shall. When a man comes into court and wiggles his fingers and rolls up his eyes as you do, he can't have any show here. In Texas, we have man-traps, sir, that cost thieves their fingers. It looks suspicious, sir. It looks suspicious; but I hope it's all right."

Sport in Ancient Egypt. Egyptians were the oldest admirers of sport. From the pictures on temple walls and tombs one learns how they spent their days in work, religious rites or pleasure. Girls played ball, sitting on the backs of their girl friends. They also danced to the rhythm of songs, which were accompanied by hand clapping. Boys ran races, balanced on beams or stood on their heads. They tried their skill in throwing pointed sticks at a wooden stump and had themselves blindfolded, beaten by their comrades, and then guessed who was beating them.

Fencing was done with a light wooden saber; a shieldlike piece of wood was fastened to the lower arm during the combat. Pictures of wrestling matches along the tomb walls of Beni Hassan would illustrate a modern textbook of wrestling.

Early Architecture. Imhotep was the earliest architect to put up a building of stone masonry. He flourished just after 3000 B. C., and his name deserves far greater fame than those of the early kings or conquerors themselves.

The erection of Imhotep's terraced buildings was but a step toward the construction of a pyramid. A generation later, so rapid was the progress, the king's architects were building the great pyramid of Ghizeh (2900 B. C.). From the earliest piece of stone masonry to the construction of the great pyramid less than a century and a half elapsed. Most of this advance was made during the Thirteenth century B. C. Such rapid progress in control of mechanical power can be found in no other period of the world's history until the Nineteenth century.

Immense Crowd Attends Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus This Afternoon

Will Be Repeated Tonight At 8:15; Thousands View Big Parade This Morning

"They're in!"
With this ejaculation, that brought the rest of the family out of the arms of sleep with a jolt, that was felt long after the breakfast dishes were cleared away—in fact up to the moment of the big parade at 11:30 a. m.—the arrival of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus was greeted at sun-up this morning by the average boy as he hopped from bed and gazed out on the railroad tracks along which were scattered the dozens of mysterious looking cars. All chock full of secrets, romance, excitement and fun. Ideal weather—real circus weather—brought the circus in and the people out.

Three special trains of twenty cars each brought in the circus—mountains of equipment if it could be piled all together. The circus city of eighteen tents was erected on the lot in remarkable time, and under it is today "living" nearly a thousand people, while hundreds of animals, whisked to Portsmouth from some far distant place over night, took up their temporary quarters in the big menagerie tent.

Open-Door Parade

The brilliantly and gorgeously spectacle parade left the show grounds promptly at 11 o'clock and that it was witnessed by thousands goes without saying. First came the mounted out-riders who heralded the coming of the pageant with blasts of music from flashing instruments, then came the immense band wagon with its sixteen dapple grey horses and all the cages were open displaying a wonderful collection of lions, tigers, baby zebras, leopards, kangaroos, tigers, a hippopotamus, monkeys innumerable, monkey, a troupe of elephants, camels and other led animals. There were four bands stationed at the proper distance apart to give a continual fanfare—music full of life and lift and pep—and then there were clowns galore who aroused the hilarious laughter of everybody.

A Big and Brilliant Circus
As for the show itself, there is the same old story of unstinted praise to sing for it. Without the shade of dissent, it is reported to be the best show given in the world under canvas. An army could not be handled with greater precision. The celerity of management in the circus that appears to the technician in observing this great aggregation. There was not the semblance of a hitch. The instant one act nears completion, the other is standing at the ring back ready to rush in and keep up the pace. The eye is never rested and in all quarters there is something continually happening. It of course, goes further than the detail of direction; it is rather the complete rounding out of the most wonderful group of circus acts available in the world's supply today. Everything essential to the make-up of a modern circus is there and handled in such an artistic manner that it seems really better than ever before. The circus moves along in sections and each is typical of some new form of circus, daring or feats of professional accomplishments calculated to surprise even the old stagers.

Among the many stars and celebrities with this national organization this season are the riding Davenport, equestrian, Captain Solomon and his trained seals. Conners troupe of wire walkers, Dan Ryan and his trained Hibernian swimmers, John Helliott in series of groups of wild animal acts in a steel girded arena. Ruth Irwin in an act with tigers and elephants, nature's natural enemies, the Wallace troupe of high school horses, Maid of the Mist, a riderless horse who jumps for the fun of it, the Jap troupe of jugglers, the Chinese troupe of acrobats and aerial performers who keep the lofty dome of the canvas alive with flying forms.

An estimated crowd of 6,000 persons attended the afternoon performance and the show tonight will start at 8:15. Doors will open at 7 o'clock so that all may pay a leisurely visit to the menagerie.

How's a Fella Goin' to See Everyt'ing to Onct?

It just can't be done, Willie! No matter how much you will see at the circus, you will miss a lot more. Gosh, wouldn't it be great if a fella could go twice, afternoon and evening, and sit at one end of the tent and then the other. "Bigger and better every year," says the circus man. The bigger it gets, the more you're bound to miss. But gosh, what a fella DOES see! Oh, boy!

Ouimet Wins Golf Honor

SANDWICH, ENG., May 4.—(By the Associated Press) Francis Ouimet, of Boston, won the royal St. George's champion golf challenge golf trophy today, defeating by one stroke Dr. O. P. Willing, of Portland, Ore., in the play off of yesterday's tie. Ouimet took 77 strokes for the 18 holes, while Dr. Willing required 78. It was a hard-fought contest with Dr. Willing on Ouimet's heels all the way. At the 18th hole Oregon champion's approach came within three inches of the cup. Had it dropped it would have tied the match. Ouimet went out in 37 and Willing in 38. Ouimet's play was steady, although his putting might have been improved upon. He took two putts on every green except two and needed three on these. Willing was frequently in the rough and in the bunkers but he hung on tenaciously largely through his superiority in putting. It was not until he reached the 10th that he required three putts. At the second, third, fifth, eighth and eleventh holes he needed only one.

MOTTO WELL WORTH WHILE

David Crockett's Advice "First Be Sure You're Right, Then Go Ahead." Always Good.

David Crockett was the author of the famous motto, "Be sure you are right, then go ahead." It is said to have first appeared in print in Crockett's "Autobiography," published in 1834—appearing on the title page in the following form, says the Detroit News:

"I leave this rule for others when I'm dead. Be always sure you're right—then go ahead."

The statement has been made that "Crockett wrote this highly entertaining history of his own life . . . full of blunders in grammar and misspelled words," although it had been revised and corrected by his more scholarly friends, "but the Briton speaks of it as 'a so-called autobiography,' which he very probably dictated or at least authorized published in 1834. A work purporting to be a continuation of this autobiography and entitled 'Colonel Crockett's Exploits and Adventures in Texas' is undoubtedly spurious."

John Bartlett, in his "Familiar Quotations," describes "Be sure you are right, then go ahead" as "the motto of David Crockett in the War of 1812."

Where Mammoths Roamed.
Mastodons and woolly mammoths were once as thick in New York as bison were on the western plains a century ago, according to Dr. Sherman C. Bishop, zoologist of the state museum. Although the mammoths were more closely related to the elephants, the only surviving members of the family, they were the first to become extinct and probably passed off the scene while the mastodons were still thriving. Skeletons of mastodons, more or less complete, and some of them suitable for museum mounting, have been found in about 100 localities in the state, the last one at Temple Hill, Orange county, in 1901. The first was found in Alabama in 1795. These huge mammals are believed to have flourished about the end of the last glacial period, some 20,000 years ago. Their skeletons are found generally in the marsh lands of those early days.

Rachel's Tomb Jewish Shrine.
Rachel's tomb, about a mile from Bethlehem, is a sacred shrine of the Jews. It is the only spot of Old Testament interest to which the Jews have exclusive rights, and the chief rabbi of Jerusalem has the key to it. They assemble there from time to time for prayer. They do the same at Hebron, where the patriarchs are buried, but in general they do not have ready access to the graves of their forefathers. The Moslems refuse this privilege to them.

Zornes Case

The case of Mrs. Mame Zornes, 422 Third street, charged with fighting and with possession of liquor, was given another hearing in Municipal court Thursday and then continued until next Tuesday to give the defense an opportunity to bring additional witnesses into court to testify on behalf of the accused.

On information furnished by Mrs. Nettie Goodwin after she had engaged in a fight with Mrs. Zornes a week ago, the police found a half dozen glass jars each containing a small amount of moonshine liquor in rooms occupied by a woman in a house owned by the Zornes. The State claimed that Mrs. Zornes placed the liquor where it was found, but she disclaimed all ownership of the jars or having knowledge of their contents. The hearing disclosed that the trouble between the women grew out of gossip involving the name of Mrs. Zornes with another man. The accused is represented by Attorney W. H. Sprague.

Most for your money or your money back.

Your blood changes in the Spring. Why?

YOUR blood is thicker and more sluggish in Winter than in Summer—it has to be to keep you warm. Then comes warmer days and lighter clothes. Your blood is slow to throw off its impurities. What happens? The impurities crowd out through the skin—bolls and pimples appear—you feel sluggish and tired! The remedy for this condition is S. S. S. It is the ideal blood purifier, because the medicinal properties are purely vegetable. It is a glorious fact that!

Mr. Harry C. Bachman, 4734 Main Avenue, Norwood, Ohio, writes: "I had skin eruptions—pimples and blackheads. I took S. S. S. and was happily surprised at the results I got in less than three weeks' time."

Try it yourself. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical. Get a bottle today!

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Dick Acklin, big boss of the Double A ranch, took a lynching party to the ranch of Buck Bodine when he heard that Bodine was in the line of the blowing up of a dam built by the Double A. Acklin finds Mercedes Arrasada in tears at Bodine's place and shortly, one of Bodine's men, dead on the floor. Blaze Kildare of the Double A is an unseen spectator of all that happens inside the cabin.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Mercedes bit her finger nails nervously under the searching scrutiny of Acklin's eyes. Her very excitement made her seem guilty to him. The crying child brought back to the man a recollection of Esteban's words. Bodine had taken care of the child then! She had come, too! In some way she had got rid of his man, Melody.

His voice rose to a roar as he opened his mouth to speak. "So you're a ready to skip with Bodine, eh? That's your little plan, is it? You forget it! He's done all the traveling he's going to do. You'll go with me when I leave here. Aw-ah! Who did that?"

He pointed to Bodine.

"She did!" Bodine cried, wiping the blood from his scratched face. "Pulled my gun out and got him from the door!" Acklin bellowed. "Is that right?"

Mercedes covered her face with her hands. He could hear her sob as she turned away. It was answer enough for him.

"They'll take you to jail for this," he grumbled. He stopped to mutter to himself. Then, "No, they won't. I'll fix that!"

He came close to Bodine. Buck's nerve had returned in a measure. "You won't take her away from me, Acklin; not that way," he cut in before the Big Boss could speak. But Acklin laughed in his face for his pains.

"You have your little joke, Bodine," he warned. "Your time's short enough."

Buck's face paled a trifle at the studied ease with which the man before him uttered this statement. "What you hintin' at now?" he demanded.

"When my men get here you'll find out. You didn't think you could get away with what you pulled on me tonight, did you? You bossed this deal!"

Bodine's lips twitched uneasily. Had that fool kid given him away? His poker eyes searched Acklin's face for some sign. Acklin's face found nothing to reassure him.

"You ain't got in to have me arrested, that boss's word, are you," he asked.

"No. We ain't going to arrest you Bodine."

The directness of this statement blanched the big fellow's face. "They were going to do without the law; that was what Acklin was saying. The blood along Buck's spine grew cold for a brief second. But his courage passed. He had been in dire straits before and lived through. He summoned a grin to his mouth now and laughed derisively, pretending not to understand the innuendo.

"You're all cut up about your dam, ain't you?" The laugh died out of Bodine's voice. "You'll never rebuild that little toy, either; not if you jug me!"

"It was Acklin's turn to smile. "We don't forget about your injunction when we built it, didn't we?" he asked sarcastically.

"No!" Buck shook his head. "You forgot how the water was tricked out of the Rebel so that you could build your dam! When I tell my story to a jury, you'll go into eclipse."

to its sordid finish. Bodine's face was ghastly. Without knowing why he did it, Kildare walked past him into the kitchen.

There seemed to be some delay outside. Bodine's rifle stood in the corner. Blaze picked it up and threw a shell into the barrel. In the past he had pondered at some length over acquiring this gun. He saw that it was the same caliber as Acklin's. That effectively snuffed the flimsy thread of circumstantial evidence by which he had expected to trace Jose's murderer. He told himself now that he should not have expected any other end to such reasoning. At least he still had the Indian charm.

The others started moving into the kitchen. Brother Jones had a gun at Bodine's back. Acklin sang out again for those outside to hurry in. In answer to his second call the door was flung open. Blaze could hardly see for joy. The man who had just entered was Tuscarora!

"Sorry I had to keep you waiting," the little fellow cried. "I been hurryin' to beat all get out."

"What're you doing here?" Acklin shouted.

Kent smiled faintly. "You might enlighten me, too, in that direction. I got the sheriff and some twenty deputies outside, if that's any news to you."

CHAPTER XXXIV
The silence that followed, Land squeezed past the little man in the doorway. He was broad-shouldered, gigantic; a sheriff of by-gone days. In the crook of his arm he carried a time-worn array Winchester that he had taken away from a renegade Plute.

"Wall Acklin!" he asked easily. "You're making yourself a lot of trouble butting in here, Land."

"Don't you go worryin' about me. I'll take care of myself." He turned to Kent: "Are your friends here, Joe?"

"How about that, Blaze?" Tuscarora demanded. "Is the Senorita and her brother here?"

Mercedes had heard Kent's question. She left the window against which she had been leaning and came to the door between the rooms. The child was asleep in her arms.

The girl's woeful appearance stabbed the little man to the heart. "What's the matter, honey?" he murmured sympathetically as he reached out to help her.

Tell Peter to come in here," he called to Land, a second later. When the old Basque came in, Kent gave the sleeping child to him.

"Take him outside till this thing's over," he advised.

Bricklayer Foreman for Columbus Contracting Firm Relates His Experience.

Mr. David Deshler Sked, who lives at 424 S. Third street Columbus foreman and bricklayer with Latham & Company, well known contractors, is wonderfully pleased over his experience with Kadlok.

He says "I have been strong and healthy all my life and have scarcely known what sickness meant, but a few months ago I felt myself slipping as I was all run down and in disposed generally. I had no appetite; was wakeful at nights and did not get my proper rest; got up mornings feeling weak and dog-tired before starting for work. I have been employed for the past few months on the Lazarus Addition and my game is no more, as it is a healthy man's job to put in a full day's work at brick laying, as I have to be around and doing all the time. I heard about Kadlok from a friend of mine and started taking it; since then I have improved rapidly; have a good appetite and have gained in weight and strength. Today I feel as well as I ever did. Kadlok is the best system tonic known and I am glad to recommend it to my friends."

Kadlok can be obtained in Portsmouth at Fisher & Streich's Drug Store.—Advertisement.

Life flowed back into Buck's veins immediately. This was help from an unexpected source.

"That'll stop your little game, Acklin!" he cried.

The Big Boss paid no attention to Bodine's words. His eyes were on Blaze. In tense tones he said to him:

"You ain't saying who did it, Kildare. But you and I know. It means a trial—jail! We don't want that. If you'll pass me your word, we'll string up this skunk for blowing out the dam and killing this man, and let it go at that."

Then came the clatter of many hooves.

"Here are the rest of the boys. We'll get moving!" The Big Boss raised his voice. "Somebody bring in a rope!" he cried. "Hurry up!"

BIG "GOLD BLUFFS" HOAX

Reported Finding of Yellow Metal Caused Intense Excitement in San Francisco in 1851.

To San Francisco in January, 1851, came a tale that set even its excitement-faded pulses a-throb. Briefly, 19 prospectors had proceeded in the steamer Chesapeake toward the Klamath river, and near this stream the seashore for miles was composed—half, at least—of pure gold, writes Eugene Coughlin in Adventure Magazine.

Digging was not required. One had only to raise as much as he wished of the golden sand from the beach. Small wonder that San Francisco went mad. Eight vessels prepared to sail for "Gold Bluffs."

Then the bottom dropped out. It was rumored first that the gold was mixed with black and gray sand; that because of its exceeding fineness it could not be separated from the sand. Worse still, the sea washed through huge piles of collected sand and flood tide brought none of it back. Working "Gold Bluffs" promised a reversal of ordinary mining—gold went into, instead of coming out of, the ground. So the greatest excitement of the decade was done. But it was a "thriller" while it lasted.

Queen Ante and Bess.

It has been contended that the queen ant has not had justice done to her by naturalists. As compared with the famous queen bee, she is regarded by some as a far more admirable creature. In fact, they are in many respects, diametrical opposites. The queen bee is a degenerate creature, unable to nourish herself or her young, to visit flowers, to build combs, or to store them with honey. With the queen ant quite the reverse is true. She is a perfect example and embodiment of her species and the worker ants suffer from incomplete and retarded development. The queen ant is a very industrious and intelligent worker and it is pointed out that she forms an exceedingly interesting subject for study, and has not hitherto been well understood.

Miss Margaret Anderson Loses Money, Baggage In Rome; Wires For Help

Relatives of Miss Margaret Anderson of this city, were concerned Friday in what kind of an accident she had figured in after the following cablegram was received from her in Rome, Italy:

"Distressing condition. Lost everything. Please wire money."

The cablegram was received by Russell Anderson, a brother of Miss Anderson, who for three years has been doing missionary work in Penang, Malaysia. She was on her way home when she apparently lost her baggage in Rome. Relatives are making an effort to learn the circumstances surrounding her loss. Miss Anderson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Anderson, who are temporarily residing in Tucson, Arizona.

WOMAN LEAPS FROM AUTO; BADLY HURT

Mrs. Rosa Hodge, living near the Dan Egbert farm above Lucasville, was treated at Hempstead hospital for injuries she sustained about 3 p. m. Friday when she was thrown from an automobile on Scioto Trail, near the Two-mile hill. She was coming to town in a machine driven by her husband and when he lost control of the car Mrs. Hodge became frightened and in attempting to jump from the car, lost her footing and was thrown to the paving. She was severely lacerated and bruised about the face and breast and suffered considerably from shock.

MOTTO WELL WORTH WHILE

David Crockett's Advice "First Be Sure You're Right, Then Go Ahead," Always Good.

David Crockett was the author of the famous motto, "Be sure you are right, then go ahead." It is said to have first appeared in print in Crockett's "Autobiography," published in 1834—appearing on the title page in the following form, says the Detroit News:

"I leave this rule for others when I'm dead. Be always sure you're right—then go ahead."

The statement has been made that "Crockett wrote this highly entertaining history of his own life. Full of blunders in grammar and misspelled words," although it had been revised and corrected by his more scholarly friends, "but the Britanna speaks of it as a well-accepted autobiography, which he very probably dictated or at least authorized published in 1834. A work purporting to be a continuation of this autobiography and entitled "Colonel Crockett's Experiences and Adventures in Texas" is undoubtedly spurious."

John Bartlett, in his "Familiar Quotations," describes "Be sure you are right, then go ahead" as "the motto of David Crockett in the War of 1812."

United Brethren Church News

Next Sunday, throughout the entire United Brethren denomination is known as Young People's Anniversary Day. The program at the Sunday school hour and the evening service will be devoted to this interest. The young people of the Sunday school will usher and other features will be included in the program that is planned.

At the evening service, instead of the regular preaching, a playlet demonstrating the plan of work for United Brethren Young People will be given in the main auditorium. A spirited song service will precede this part of the service and all who attend will enjoy the evening's program. The church officials and the membership in general are urged to be present. After witnessing this service they will have a greater appreciation of the splendid work being done in the Young People's Department. The service will begin at seven o'clock.

Elaborate plans are being made for the observance of Mother's Day during the Sunday school hour and also at the evening service. At the suggestion of the pastor at the Sunday evening service the church is to have a Children's vested choir. It is quite likely that this choir will make its first appearance on the last Sunday in May.

School Rally Held At Powellsville

A splendid school meeting was held at the Powellsville school house Thursday evening. J. H. Finney of Portsmouth made a strong inspirational talk on the advantages of a good common and high school education and in a very convincing manner urged the people to provide proper grade and high school conditions for Green township. Mr. Finney was among old friends for he taught in Green township for 3 years a good many years ago.

County Superintendent E. O. McCowan explained the proposed solution to their school situation as recommended by their board of education. S. M. Varnier president of the board presided at the meeting and all board members but one were present.

The Junior Class of the Wheelersburg High School enjoyed a fine banquet last evening under the direction of Miss Eleanor Jones of the Home Economics Department. "A Midsummer Day" is the name of a cantata to be presented by the grade pupils of the Wheelersburg High School next Monday evening. This promises to be a very delightful affair and the general public is cordially invited to attend.

NEW BOSTON

The members of the Loyal Daughters Class of the Ohio Avenue Christian church enjoyed an interesting meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Bessie Fitch, Gallia avenue. After the regular routine business, the remainder of the evening was devoted to a social hour. Central S. C.—"I was in a very weakened condition... pale and thin, hardly able to go," says Mrs. Bessie Bearden, of this place. "I would suffer, when I stood on my feet, with bearing-down pains in my sides and lower parts of my body. I did not rest well and didn't want anything to eat. My color was bad and I felt miserable. A friend of mine told me of Cardui, and then I remembered my mother used to take it. After the first bottle I was better. I began to flesh up, and I regained my strength and good healthy color. I am feeling fine. I took twelve bottles (of Cardui) and haven't had a bit of trouble since."

Has King Of Cult Colony Wife Living In South Portsmouth?

Has King Benjamin. Purnell, head of the House of David, who has been missing for several weeks, an abandoned wife living in South Portsmouth?

The Times received a message this afternoon from Cleveland stating that it was rumored there that it was possible that the "King of the Cult"

Colony" had an abandoned wife in or near South Portsmouth, and that she was known as Mrs. Angelina Riley.

The Times made frequent inquiries in South Portsmouth, but failed to locate any one who had ever heard of an Mrs. Angelina Riley living in or near that village.

Thief Visits Three More Rooms

Three more homes were visited by a thief during the last several days and his efforts were rewarded as he secured money at each place.

About three o'clock Friday morning the thief visited the home of Jesse Roberts, 615 Eighth street. There he did not enter the house but stood outside and used a clothes prop to "fish" Robert's clothes from his bedroom to the outside. A window had been raised about 8 inches and the blind was all the way down. The thief raised it as far as the window was open. He "hooked" Robert's trousers and coat. As the prop struck the window it awakened Mr. and Mrs. Roberts. The police were notified and they found Robert's trousers in the yard near the window, and his coat on the south side of the street near Findlay. The contents of the pockets were found in the yard of the Roberts home. Mr. Roberts had a little over $4 in his pockets. Receipts, etc., were left on the ground by the thief after he ransacked the clothes.

Recently an unwelcome visitor made himself comfortable at the home of William Jaynes, 1100 Third street. Mr. Jaynes was working at Waverly and Mrs. Jaynes was visiting in Dayton. The blinds had been left up and Tuesday the neighbors noticed they were down. They did not investigate until Thursday evening when they found a side door open. The entire house downstairs and up had been ransacked and contents of the drawers dumped on the floors. Bedclothing was turned back and little rolls of cloth in a machine drawer were opened to see if money was hidden there. One pair of trousers was missing in addition to about $4 in change and some jewelry, including cuff links, shirt set, etc. Jewelry with monograms was left after it was handled by the thief who threw several cigarette stubs about the house. Mr. Jaynes was notified of the robbery last night and he arrived home on the same train as Mrs. Jaynes. The home of Mrs. Jennie Gyor, 2002 Eighth street, was also visited. A skeleton key was also used here, a back door being opened. The family was asleep upstairs while the thief completely ransacked the downstairs. Clothing on a hall rack was searched and the thief was rewarded when he found $17. The money belonged to Miss Edna Gyor who was to take it to the bank Tuesday. Her silver mesh bag was also stolen.

LEGION DRIVE IS SUCCESS; PLANS ARE BEING MADE FOR MEMORIAL DAY

The Legion campaign for new members reached a climax last evening at the regular May meeting, held in Legion hall.

It had been announced as a "Pleaser Round-Up," the new members being the prisoners. The meeting was well attended and quite a success. Eleven applications were submitted and nine "prisoners" were counted and dealt with in proper "military" manner. The drive is to be continued until June.

Many matters of interest were discussed at the business session, chief of which was the plan for observance of Memorial Day by the Legion, G. A. R. and other patriotic societies. Commander Clayton announced that State Commander Gilbert Bettman had been invited to the meeting, but was prevented from attending by conflicting arrangements. It is hoped to secure both Mr. Bettman and State Adjutant Hugh K. Martin for the June meeting.

Arrangements are being made for a joint celebration of Memorial Day with the G. A. R., S. W. V. and other patriotic organizations. Rev. Dr. John Collins Jackson will deliver the Memorial address.

A bronze medal to be given to the winner of the Morning Star's Marble Tournament has been placed on exhibition at the Smoke House. Following the meeting last night, refreshments of ice cream, cake and cigarettes were rationed out.

Another Old Fashioned Idea Gone to the Junk Heap

If you have sore, aching, inflamed feet—this story will make you happy.

There are twenty-six small bones in the human foot. Covered with a delicate and sensitive membrane and connected with dozens of small, easily strained ligaments. It is now a well established fact that in the many much used joints of the feet nearly all foot soreness and inflammation starts. All of these years and years, we have been treating foot ailments as if they were only skin deep. Powdering the feet and bathing them in medicated water and doing other equally foolish things. Might just as well drink a glass of ginger ale or eat a piece of custard pie for all the lasting good such treatment ever did the feet.

Now we know that the only way to get rid of foot agony, inflammation and soreness is to use a remedy that is made especially for joint troubles and goes right straight to the joints—right where the trouble lies.

Such a remedy there is and millions know about it—they know that when you rub Joint-Ease over any joint for one minute that it soaks right through the skin and flesh and goes direct straight to the joint and ligaments—quick.

And if you rub this wonderful stainless emollient on your sore, tired, inflamed and aching feet tonight, you'll see it quickly disappear on its errand of helpfulness—right in to where the trouble is.

And if your feet are very sore—so inflamed that you cannot walk without agony, rub it on two or three times between supper and bedtime—your feet will be much better—perhaps all better in the morning.

Try this new and sensible way to get rid of all foot agony. Get a tube of Joint-Ease today. It costs but 60 cents and bears in mind—when Joint-Ease get in foot soreness gets right out!

Banks Are Robbed

KANSAS CITY, MO., May 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The two banks of Backer, Mo., about 18 miles from here were raided by five bandits shortly before noon today. They escaped in a motor car with about $6,000 in cash and $25,000 in restricted Liberty bonds.

The robbers were accompanied simultaneously, the party of five bandits, dividing when it entered the town. Two bandits held up the bank of Backer, and two raided the Farmers' Bank, on an opposite corner, while the fifth bandit remained at the wheel of their automobile. Following the robberies, the bandits drove rapidly in the direction of Independence, Mo.

All Paris Gasps When Mistinguette Sweeps In

But the Clothes-Mad French Capital Now Declares the Famous Danseuse's Extravagance Is Better Than the Too-Much Undress of Some Other Gallic Beauties.

A Caricature of Mistinguette by Nerman, Swedish Artist.

In Which Mistinguette Decides to Hide Her "Perfect Legs" and Startle Her Audience with a Superabundance of Complicated Clothes.

By Winifred Van Duzer

MAMSELLE MISTINGUETTE—she of the lovely legs and tantalizing taste in head-gear—once more has thrown challenge to the attention of that so dear Paris.

Isn't it amazing that she can do it—this woman whose seeming youthfulness and sense of fantasy captivate the French capital—when it is whispered that she is 58 years old? "What charm," say her admirers, "what vitality through the long line of the years! She looks thirty! But do you remember her when—?"

In the latest bid for acclaim Mistinguette makes no gesture toward encore, mind! For la petite reine de la Boulevards does not repeat her acts! Thus she, from the cryptic centre of her boudoir, issues no new word concerning those legs, those charming legs by the standard of which all feminine legs of all countries were measured no longer than a thought ago.

Nor does she remind that magnificent public of her lovely legs during the war when her bravery and arduousness saved her own cavalier from the cruel Boche and set Paris a-buzz as to the fittingness of bestowing upon her graceful self the Legion d'Honneur!

No, her stunt of the moment is different. When a tonic of sorts seemed to be indicated for the anaemic interest of the French Capital, la petite femme just tossed off a few little ideas in the way of new finery, all built up roomy and heavy where feminine garments usually are very shrinking indeed. It doesn't sound like much when you're reading it—this scheme—but it sure managed to get the old-one-two to Parisian audiences! All Paris gasps when Ma'm'selle walks in with her hooped skirts, her wand at least twelve feet high and her hat climbing as far above her head as her head is above the ground!

But the climax of the ingeniousness of the little idol of the Casino has nothing to do with taffeta nor ostrich. For in her actual coup de grace she threw away all these transient things, and depended—upon what? Why, upon her own lovely little self! Doubt if you wish; criticize, carp, cavil! Her dancing costume consists of a few dozen square inches of epidermis—sufficient to cover a small and charming French girl, three fair-sized medallions of gems and cut beads, placed where their accomplishment is to reveal rather than conceal, and several swaying strings of beads!

But to show that she knows what's what in clothes, even if she doesn't wear them all at one time, Mistinguette affects a most diverting piece of head-covering with this costume—or lack of costume. It is a skull-fitting arrangement from which branch out a certain number of antlers, all looking like carved ivory and set with jewels.

The first time the dancer appeared thus turned out, her audience gasped, rubbed its eyes, folded up its spine to make the line straighter, opened its mouth, breathed through its teeth, and went to the doctor the next day to find out if the heart really was in bad shape after all.

It was said on the best of authority that the first appearance of Mistinguette au naturel, or nearly so, was the beginning of the wave of protest which now is sweeping some sections of Paris, headed by the Council of Ministers, this being a sort of tidal roll directed against the ultra-modernism in undress with which certain entertainers in France now are attempting to cheer or anaesthetize their audiences. Still the Council of Ministers, or at least the leading dramatic critics, appear not to wish to take all the thrill out of performances for theatregoers. One of the most noted explains that it isn't so much the sight of beauty unclad upon the stage with a soft light—or even a good, strong, white light—reposing upon it that scrambles the mind and morals of the public.

It's when, he goes on, the unrobed beauties leave the stage and go for strolls down in the orchestra circle, and even back in the family section that he believes the scheme to be "all wrong." The Council says:

In Which Mistinguette Attempts to Prove Her Contentment That the "Semi-Nude Is Only Esthetic When Immobile, Like a Statue."

"We must take measures to end the wave of obscenities and offences against morals which have been prevalent in certain theatres in Paris lately."

But Andre Antoine, the leading Parisian dramatic critic, had this to say: "The long-distance view of the stage beauties clad only in a few square inches of veil no longer thrills. And the women started parading first in the darkness, but now in the calcium glare—among the orchestra seats. The theatre of today would have made our grandparents die of shame."

Mistinguette Arrives at the Ball.

With Her American Dancing Partner, Harry Pilcer.

Pierre Brisson, another noted writer, continues: "What more could be done than is done today, such as showing unclad girls under glaring light and multi-colored projectors. Perhaps Antoine is right in calling our attention to the danger of taking any further liberties, for if things continue I should like to know what we are going to see twenty years hence."

In Which Mademoiselle, ze Eccentric, Adopts a New Fluffy Top-Hat. Does She Look the 58 Years Her Critics Assign to Her?

Then Mistinguette propelled herself into the controversy and said: "The nude is being generalized too much. It is only esthetic when immobile, like a statue."

As for the Parisian authorities, they decided that Ma'm'selle's riotous extravagance in clothes was much to be preferred over the absolute undress of some of her Gallic sisters. And so the lady got, now as always, what she most desired—a hail from the world!

Some years back it was that Ma'm'selle brought her legs to this country and challenged any American legs to walk up and compete with them for beauty. But from that trip she returned to her boulevards a saddened woman, for she landed no engagement on the stage here. And she went away saying that New York was oh, so dull!

"Your theatres were closed, your restaurants dry. But alas! the only beautiful women in the world are in New York. Still, the law of compensation makes them dull. Everything over here is dull. I always had believed that your New York was like a huge three-ring circus, but I found it like a Punch and Judy show. I am going back to Paris disillusioned. You have too many beautiful women here to make a French-woman happy!"

To all of which a smart snip of a Broadwayite replied: "Let her wear that lil old last-act costume of hers with the skillets and the beads to it over here and she'll find out how dull is New York! You tell 'em she will!"

"You Need Not Have Wrinkles." Is Rubinstein's Message To Women

By Miss Helen Rubinstein
International Beauty Expert
(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

Wrinkles are a serious matter in a woman's life, apart from personal vanity.

To the business woman whose alertness of mind is often mistakenly judged by the face wrinkles are a decided drawback. To the actress whose career is built on beauty they are almost fatal, but they are cruellest of all to the average woman whose husband fell in love with her while she possessed the charm of youthfulness.

Wrinkles are deterioration. They come from different and combined causes. There are large loose wrinkles and tight wrinkles. There are wrinkles that seem to make the skin gather in tight little bunches and there are light wrinkles that seem to be traced on the surface of the skin. The same basic principles of treatment apply to all.

First cleanse the skin with cream. Then press in a good stimulant that will stir the tiny cells to life, then massage in a rich stimulating cream. Excellent as I know massage to be, I often hesitate to advise it because so many women have the idea that the harder they rub the better they are doing it. Just the reverse is the case. Take the cream in the palm of your hand and with sustained and gentle movements, slowly press it in. Avoid pulling or stretching any part of the skin. When you come to your eyes take a little cream warmed by your hand, on your finger tips and apply it, following the eye. During the day cleanse with cream and apply a little tonic, milder than the stimulant.

Be sure to protect your skin from the weather. From heat and cold, wind and sun, by applying a foundation cream and powder base because exposure to the weather dries the skin and wrinkles follow. In massaging, work across the line and in a rotary movement, and always stroke upward. Instead of downward. Correct yourself of the objectionable habit of squinting or grimacing as you talk, and make a conscious effort to relax your features until it becomes natural for you to do so.

Of course, I do not mean to imply that a woman advanced in years can always look 18. But I do say there should never be any unlovely signs of age and wrinkles are certainly that.

Be sure to protect your skin from the weather. From heat and cold, wind and sun, by applying a foundation cream and powder base because exposure to the weather dries the skin and wrinkles follow. In massaging, work across the line and in a rotary movement, and always stroke upward. Instead of downward. Correct yourself of the objectionable habit of squinting or grimacing as you talk, and make a conscious effort to relax your features until it becomes natural for you to do so.

LENORE ULRICH's beauty is the haunting beauty of the oriental. It has the exotic, mysterious quality seldom encountered and never forgotten. You want always to look at her just once more to see if she is really as beautiful as you thought—and she is always more so!

CLAIM TAFT BILL NOT SUBJECT TO A REFERENDUM

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—That the Taft taxation bill, enacted over Governor Donahue's veto by the General Assembly, is not subject to a referendum and in fact is in actual effect now was general belief expressed today about the State Capitol. Announcement has been made that the executive committee of the association of real estate boards would consider the advisability of bringing a referendum on the measure at the committee's meeting here May 21.

Representative Robert T. Taft of Cincinnati, author of the measure, was the first to discover the constitutional provision which may exempt his measure from a referendum. Here today Mr. Taft stated that he believes that the law cannot be referred to a vote of the people at the next November election, because of the constitutional provision that exempts from tax levies. This provision, Mr. Taft said, is in his opinion, broad enough to bring the Taft bill under the constitutional exemption.

It's Safe, Says Hughes. Edward W. Hughes, parliamentarian of the General Assembly declared without equivocation that the Taft law is not subject to referendum and in fact is in effect now, the bill as passed over Governor Donahue's veto having been filed with the Secretary of State.

C. A. Dyer, of Coalition, secretary of the Ohio Home Protective League who has made a study of taxation for many years, and who has been instrumental in the drafting of many taxation laws, said he, too, is of the opinion that the Taft law is immune from a referendum.

TEN YEARS AGO, on May 4, 1913, says he is through with baseball.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO, on May 4, 1898, Oberlin University defeated Case, 6 to 5, in a game that held the attention of the collegiate baseball world.

An Inventor at Seventeen. One Saturday morning, more than 60 years ago, writes Floyd L. Darrow in St. Nicholas Magazine, a man and a boy might have been observed standing over a piece of pipe in a machine shop in Schenectady, N. Y. The man was giving instructions to his fourteen-year-old son, George Westinghouse, Jr., as to how he wished this pipe to be cut into pieces of a certain length. George had wanted to go on a hike with some other boys, but his father, a somewhat stern man, was assigning a task which, he assured the lad, would require all his spare time for several days to come. While his father had been talking, the boy had been thinking out a scheme to escape this drudgery. In a few hours he had rigged up a combination of tools which, when attached to a power machine, automatically fed the pipe and cut it into the proper lengths. In this youthful incident we have the first glimpse of the wonderful inventive genius of one of the most extraordinary men that America has ever produced—George Westinghouse.

Banker's Daughter Reported Missing

NEW YORK, May 4.—Although the police, the radio and other agencies have been invoked to search for Miss Elizabeth K. Colt, 22-year-old daughter of a Littlefield, Conn., banker who disappeared Monday, while on the way from the home of an aunt in Montclair, N. J., little progress has been made in the solution of the mystery, the police admitted today.

A man who read the description of the missing young woman telephoned today that he saw a girl corresponding with her description on a subway train Monday night.

Put Reference Books to Work. In many a household children seem entirely ignorant of the usefulness of reference books of all sorts. One housewife made a discovery not long ago, one which she passes on as a help to parents whose children are in school. Here is her story: "After the son of the house had asked his father the meaning of four different words the father asked why he had bought an unabridged dictionary in ten volumes if he must still go on defining words. "But, daddy," the boy protested, "those big books are packed on the shelf so tight that I can scarcely drag one out. It may be that in other homes reference books are packed on the shelves too tightly or too high up to be of much service."

INSURANCE AND TAXES
THESE are two men in the United States who carry five million dollars insurance on their lives, two who carry four millions, two who carry three millions, five who carry two millions and sixteen who carry over one million, with hundreds who carry over a hundred thousand.
It might be thought men able to carry such a volume of insurance need make no such protection for their families, but that is the very reason why they do take it, as a precaution against the future. All around them they see fortunes disappearing more rapidly than they are making their own.
Insurance not only makes provision against such contingency, but it is valuable otherwise. It provides cash against the immediate needs of heirs and furnishes the funds to meet the pressing obligations of the estate, thus saving the sacrificing of assets through forced sales. More than that it provides a fund upon which a greedy government can not lay its grasping hands.
Take the case of Frank W. Woolworth, a man who started with nothing and died "worth" forty million dollars, and whose estate had shrunk to thirty million when it was divided in the course of a year or two. Some of his securities sunk in price because they had to be sold to make division; but it was mainly trimmed down because the federal government and the state of New York together took seven millions for inheritance taxes. Think of that. After a man had in honesty and industry accumulated a fortune, wrought it out with his own hands and brains and the state and the nation step in at his death and take more than one sixth of it. Proportionately they ravage the estate of all successful dead.
This great government of ours refrains from preying upon that portion that is invested in life insurance.

THE STRING SPOILS IT
GERMANY has submitted a proposal to France to pay thirty billion gold marks in discharge of her reparations bills.
That is a huge sum, a sum that appears somewhat near the country's ability to pay. Unfortunately, however, the offer, like all of Germany's maneuverings, bears inherent evidence of her lack of good faith, and has a string to it, the main thread being that the nation be able to negotiate a loan, in foreign countries to that amount.
It may well be that no nation, nor combination of nations, will be found willing to make such a colossal loan to Germany. Her internal financial operations, since the war, have been such as to lead to the conviction that she is running to a bankruptcy that will make it utterly impossible for her to discharge her war obligations. Being somewhat thwarted in this purpose by the French occupation of the Ruhr, she is now professing a great desire to clean off the slate, in so far as she can. In this pretension she even proposes that if the offer of thirty billion marks be not acceptable, the allies shall proceed to another adjustment. This is merely digging a trap into which her late foes may fall, since the result, if the proposal be accepted, would be to re-open the whole matter of settlement of the peace conference and treaty, should there be default in payment, as there doubtless would occur.
Re-opening of war settlements would benefit Germany because animosities would not be as fierce as they were at the immediate end of the conflict and there would, out of that grow a disposition to abate the harshness of the original terms. In no event could delay mean a more severe judgment against the vanquished.

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED
THE decision of the supreme court, that the United States government can neither prohibit, nor control, the sale of intoxicating liquors, outside its own territorial boundaries, has provoked another flood of difficulties and problems in the matter of enforcement. England and France are provoked at one phase of the decision and are said to be considering the dreadful menace of filing diplomatic protest, while Harry Daugherty is bombarding the winds in the vicinity of Washington with threats of injunctions and prosecutions, and a mysterious voice is declaring proclamations and policies for the administration. What is going to be the final outcome no one can say, but we apprehend foreign powers have troubles enough of their own, right at home and will, not foolishly seek entanglements over here, knowing full well, as they do, that the administration can do nothing, would but make itself ridiculous if it tried, to alter a ruling laid down by its highest tribunal. For, to its honor, let it be said, that tribunal does not mix politics, either national or international, with its judgments, basing them solely upon the law and the intent of the law, in so far as it can be arrived at by its phraseology.

There is no hesitancy, however, neither is there any doubt of entertaining America, quickly starting on any avenue that points wide open to business and profit. Noting the possibilities of the three mile limitation, vessels are already being fitted up as gin palaces and soon they will be sailing blithely away from every port, with hordes eager to break the drought that prevails more or less ashore.

New York=Day=By=Day
BY O. O. MCINTIRE

NEW YORK, May 4—Thoughts while strolling around New York. Young revolvers sweeping to misthins. Rugged ear-jobs. Plucked eyebrows. And baby stares. Russian short coats. Gamble gloves. Beads tight around the throat. There goes a pack of fox hounds.
Wonder if a modern policeman knows how to stop a runaway. Jazz Cowl enters a cafeteria. Strange ways of making a living. A peddler selling rubber tips for cabs. A woman on the curb reciting Kipling's poems. No let up to the radio furor.
Nearly all Fifth Avenue bus conductors are young Irishmen. And they appear to find romance in their jobs. Haggard gamins trailing an ice wagon. Sidewalk fur salesmen. Another cafe bids for pavement patronage. But the little tables are empty.
Hollow-eyed stray cats. That old fellow resembles J. P. Ham. Twink Whiskers and all. Whatever became of the picture hat. A one armed lunch advertising caviar. Wonder which one of the Tortoni boys named the biscuit. Central Park preparing for May day parties.
The uptown Ghetto. A square closed for an Italian festa. Banners and festoonings. Bright yellow headcloths. Red and purple handkerchiefs. Everybody talks with their hands. Bimbos left alone on door steps. Hope no one grows playful with a stiletto.
The ancient obelisk—Cleopatra's Needle. To me the most interesting relic in New York. It saw the fall of Egypt and stood while Rome rose and fell. And thousands pass it without a glance. West Indian negroes playing cricket. And speaking French.
Mounted policemen stealing, quiet smokes in the shrubbery. The gravel path around the reservoir. Like another world. Augustus Thomas in knickers. And followed by a Great Dane. Wish I had my pipe. Another dusk. And soon another day. Hoigh ho!
